by bill doll

Next week, Madge Evans joins Mitzi Green in Milton Stiefel's star parade. She'll be followed shortly by Ezra Stone, Glenda Farrell, Clifton Webb and Libby Holman. Miss Evans will be seen in "Biography," one of New York's most popular comedies . . . This week Mitzi is playing the role that was created originally by Sylvia Sidney, and Coburn Goodwin follows Franchot Tone as the heavy in "The Gentle People". . . Al White, making his first Ivoryton appearance, contributed much toward "Having Wonderful Time" winning the Critic's Award. He played the memorable Mr. G. in that production . . . Muriel Campbell, here last season, has just completed two pictures in Hollywood but hopes to join us for a couple of bills before the summer ends . . . Christine Maple, one of Mr. Stiefel's students last year, was seen by a talent scout while playing in the Ivoryton production of "The Woman," and is now touring Australia in that same show . . . When Ezra Stone comes to Ivoryton he'll leave his present job as the star of "What a Life" on Broadway. His understudy will carry on in the big city, while the "Henry Aldrich" of radio fame pays Connecticut a visit . . . Mitzi Green's parents will be well remembered by most folks as the act of Keeno and Green, famous headliners of vaudevilles heyday . . . Two of Ivoryton's former leading ladies were married during the last year.
